LEADERSHIP TRAININGS

Summer Edition

July, 2025

Dear Gettininvolved Community Member,

Summer has arrived, a season of warmth, light, and a natural pause from the usual rush. But just over the horizon, something powerful is coming: September. Not just another month or the return of routines, but the moment when life picks up pace, energy aligns, and real change feels not just possible, but natural.

Ready to use that momentum to make real progress?

In our newest blog, "Why September is the Best Time to Take Committed Action," we explain why this time of year offers the perfect window to take meaningful steps toward your goals. Read in the blog below why this is the true moment to create the results you want (instead of January)!

Want to build on this momentum? In our Engage Leadership Stages, you'll learn how to implement your vision into your everyday reality. You'll continue to access your own leadership and how to create leadership in others. Or continue your growth in our Expert in Coaching Program that start in November and keep transforming with us. And don't forget our Summer Giveaway: give someone a 10% voucher for Engage Fundamentals, and stay connected by following us on social media!

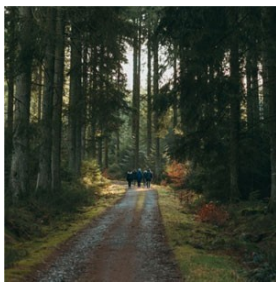

Looking forward meeting you soon again!

Hugs, Team Gettininvolved

BLOG: Why September is the Best Time to Take Committed Action

Summer gives us a chance to slow down and catch our breath. And that's exactly what makes September so powerful: life picks up again, routines return, and your energy naturally shifts into focus. It's the perfect time to reconnect with your vision, reset your priorities, and start turning intention into committed action. In this blog, we share why September holds more potential than most people realize and how you can tap into that momentum to move forward with purpose. Curious? Read the blog here!
